Inspector General's Statement

The DD/P emphasize on all possible occasions the unified nature of his organization and eliminate wherever possible the remaining vestiges of the concept of espionage and counter-intelligence and covert operations as separate, parallel services within the DD/P.

DD/P Comment

Concur: During the past year increasing emphasis has been placed on greater unification of the Clandestine Service. Separate career service designations have been eliminated and there is now one career service for members of the CS. There has been considerable movement of senior personnel between the several functional fields which has contributed to the withering of separate service concepts and loyalties. The creation of the Central Staff in my immediate office was largely based on recognition of the need to merge at the DD/P level the control and direction of our operational efforts. Future modifications in our organizational structure and our way of doing business will have as one objective the further unification of the CS.
